

SCES 2022 at Amsterdam, Netherland

Full onsite SCES, an international conference on strongly correlated electron systems, was held in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, after three years of face-to-face meetings since Okayama in 2019. About 500 people (64 from Japan) attended the conference. Dr. Miyake from the Tokunaga Lab participated in the conference and gave an oral presentation. He was deeply moved to meet with my collaborators and friends after a long time. Although it was inconvenient to travel abroad due to the coronal disaster, there was much more to gain, and I was reminded of the importance of holding face-to-face meetings. Cheered with Corona, wishing for a return to normal life.

Kanpai! with French researchers (Corona beer)