

Matsuyama (D3) visited to HZDR-HLD

After the RHMf2024 conference (Nijmegen, Netherlands), Mr. Matsuyama conducted experiments at the Dresden High Magnetic Field Laboratory (HZDR-HLD). The flight to Dresden was canceled at the last minute, and he used the railway. The arrival time scheduled in the evening was moved to midnight.

Unfortunately, the seat assigned to me on the train was blocked. (This is because the air conditioner was broken.) I escaped to an empty seat in another car.)

An object that was at the departure station of the railway. It seemed to me that he was saying "Oh my god! ".